Dr. David Clements is a theoretical physicist with advanced degrees in Maths and Physics from our most highly regarded universities in England, Oxford and Cambridge. He is now a Living Energy Systems expert, developing regenerative technologies to help humanity. This is another enthralling and inspiring conversation with him.

PAM: Hi everyone, I am so excited to have this conversation with Dr. David Clements and welcome David. I think this is the third time you've been to the channel, I think.
DAVEY: Yes, three or four I think maybe losing my way with actually this going on, but it's such a delight to be back here and hello to your audience and thank you so much for inviting me back. I love these chats with you, I'm really excited to do this one as well.
PAM: Well this happened in particular, I think is my bravest because these are always spontaneous with David and depending on where it goes, I may be retiring at the end, but we'll see. So I don't even have enough previous conversations and I will put all the links for those conversations below rather than a cover-old ground.
David, Dr. David Clements is a theoretical physicist and had a very distinguished academic career PhD in maths and physics as well at Oxford and Cambridge most respected universities. So he was very much in the mainstream academia and then as we've talked about in previous episodes, I think it was the first conversation we had. David, your life turned around 180 degrees. You are a huge fan of high galactic beings and now you're a living energy systems expert.
DAVEY: Oh, that's a very humbling way to say it. Thank you. No, no. I'm not that much, Pam, it's such a delight to be here and I just I'm so just so blown away that you reached out to me and I'm just so very happy that we're good friends now and I look forward to all the future conversations wherever they may be, however they are and to meeting you face to face and really just I think this friendship is just a wonderful thing and I can't thank you enough.
And yes, definitely and it's such a lovely thing to be able to do this as well because it gives myself and my team's the opportunity to share a lot of information to a very wide audience. And it's such a blessing because I've been reading some of the comments of people are leaving as I usually do. And it's such a lovely thing to see how just even small packets or large packets as information is really helping people and just turning on little spots within them.

And that's really the aim because like I always say the real transformation is always instigated by the being themselves. Slight little nudges from information here and there, little helps as you can be a real spark of inspiration. But truly, the joy that I really find is when people really begin to realize that the true power and the understanding has always been inside them. And to realize they don't have to be afraid, they don't have to be anything, but excited about life no matter what is going on outside there. So that's a wonderful thing to me. So I'm really happy to continue to share these kind of information.

PAM: That's wonderful and I found our conversations absolutely mind-blowing. So, a particular one, I contacted David because David has a very lively Patreon group and you can either join as a free member, I'll put the links for that below, and listen to some of his free live streams. You have many of those and free meditations, but also there's another section where it's for paid patrons. And it was the last one that was just a week or so ago, I think, David.

DAVEY: Two weeks, yes.

PAM: And you were talking about the KA template, K, A, meaning light, the KA template, and sort of asking me more about this in a moment, but you described this as an energy system which was located just behind our crown chakra. And what went ping for me was when you said this contains your energetic instructions or blueprint for what we are here to experience in this lifetime. Now, I'd consider instructions a little too prescriptive for astrology that blueprint is a word many astrologers, myself included, used for the birth chart. So, the purpose of this meditation was to significantly upgrade this template.

And so, my mind was, my antenna, heard because I was thinking, what are the implications for astrology with this? So, would you like to describe what happened in that session, David, because it was very significant, wasn't it? The upgrade?

DAVEY: Yes, yes, it was. And again, just to remind us, so that the team is always with my past, since I started connecting with them, it was pretty full on and almost to coin a friend's unrelending to a certain degree. And it really became clear to me that what they were trying to do is they really wish to accelerate humanity forward. And not in just I mean, I'm not sure, a gentle is the right word to describe it, but more it's like a very profound jump, but in ways that is, to a degree it's okay for people to stabilize, but they are significant jumps. And what's always been related to me for my teams is that the significance of humanity's potential and potential is word that gets used a lot. But in terms of what we are capable of unraveling and opening up inside ourselves, and what we're capable of becoming as energy transceivers, which is transformation of energy, also energy generation, and also perception of energy is just remarkable.

And just before I cover your question, I just want to give a bit of a footing.

And that is that where we're heading is that our body, the physical makeup, which is, it's starting to grow into a more of a crystalline nature to it. And the aspects of our DNA and how it functions has largely been very dormant we've been operating at a just a tiny, tiny drip of what we're capable of.

And the information that I've been given is that as humanity cultivates and grows into this new state our bodies are going to become the most powerful in a sort of way of speaking, but not a great way of saying the most powerful supercomputing living energetic supercomputers there are. What that means is, it's not like you're going to be running digital information through anything, like that.

So computer is not such a great word, but it gives a little analogy. So essentially what it is that the human body, if you imagine how many strands of DNA they're in your body is. It's just almost uncountable lists are many. And in each strand, there is just layers and stacks and stacks of different sort of coded molecular structures built in a helix. Now that whole energetic system by itself is so profound, but when they when it all synergizes and works together in more of a crystalline nature, the ability of the human body alone to perceive energetics on a massive spectral level.

And to be able to intuit beyond anything that, we can imagine is really where we're heading to and that is what is on the offering table for us. Should we wish to take it. And one of the steps to do this is the old KA template, which is an old system that was in place for millennia and millennia.

And is my understanding from the teams is that because of this game that we were playing where we had a diminished level of connection with our high self purposefully, because part of this game was to, okay, with all this power and ability you have up here, everything is quite easy.
What happens if you descend and compress it to high density? Forget who you are. Can you then work your way back and through that working your way back, you will gain so much experience and understanding and ability through that puzzle piece solving exercise that you do on the way back.
And as everybody knows, it hasn't been a pretty journey because that necessarily would entail a lot of things going very upside down itself whenever you want to call it. But the whole aspect of this is in order to have somewhat of a blueprint or a map for a particular life because of the diminished connection, there had to be some way to blueprint or have a sort of a template if you like to be able to have, okay, these are the elements, these are the sort of timelines and at this junction, I need to experience this. If I learn it or don't learn it, there's two branch points along that way and then another section of whole. So it's like a whole sort of map of possibilities of particularly focused on what we want to learn and achieve in that particular life. And that includes transcending as well. So things that we wanted to transcend from a previous life that we didn't quite work out will encode those into that template. So it almost acts as like in a sort of in a very rough kind of way, okay, when you get to this level, this packet of coding will trigger and you'll get these experiences to unfold or learn or transcend.
Once you've done that, your Ka template will then trigger the next series and go on and like that. So it's kind of like an energetic automated is a little bit, again, wordwise for analogy, it's sort of somewhat matches, but it was a way of having the human being able to unfold certain things while they were very unconscious of their true self and their connection with the higher self.

And now what's happened because of the massive amount of work that the light worker community has done over many, many lifetimes. But in particular, this one as well, because we were setting ourselves up of a lifetime after lifetime to set the foundations and now we're at a point where we can really start to blossom and make, make good on all the fruits that we were growing in previous lifetimes.
And so what the teams are saying is that the old Ka template system is going to undergo an adaption, it's going to change. And it's basically doing a hand over or a hand off back to the higher self, back to a more quantum fluid living energetic state. So instead of being sort of a fairly, rich is not quite the right word because there is some flexibility in there, depending on your choice points, but my understanding is eventually that will dissolve away and give way to the complete presence of the higher self where everything is created purely as a pure heart-centered creator, a perceiver where you, where you don't need that system of a template, so to speak, in order to make sure that you do certain things, because as you hand over that system, which was based for humanity as it has been very slowly over to the higher self, you become a fully embodied creator being.
And so the whole energetic system undergoes a massive significant change. And so when I talk to these beings the ones that I connect with. Their their presence is absolutely there. And they don't require a sort of almost a backup system to make sure that they do XYZ, because that information is there when they request it or there when their high aspect comes through and say, OK, this is what I'd love to do now. So it's a very different way of operating as a living human being. So I just wanted to say that. I just needed to jump in there with that.
PAM: I think most people haven't heard David before, his teams are not human employees. These are a lot of galactic things.
DAVEY: That's very funny. Yes, that's great.
PAM: So in that session we had David, yes, I understand all you've said, which is great. And in that session, we had, which was a major upgrade for this Ka template, which you described. It's a rectangular thing behind the crown chakra. Has that clearly that is evolved to some degree, has it has it disappeared? Or is it disappearing in stages? What implication does that have for astrology? I know these are very unfair questions because you're not, but what implication does that have? Because in astrology we operate by translating birth charts, which are a mix of archetypal symbolism and energy and geometry.

And they are very, they're very accurate for people's like, but to help you, David, I've always said that it's like each person's unique sheet of music for this lifetime. So the pattern is set. Yes. We have latitude in free will in terms of how we play it. How magnificently can you play that piece of music? So that's where the latitude of free will comes in. But what's happened to the pattern in going through that blueprint?
DAVEY: Yes, that's a very good question. I might have to take a few layers to back this. So yes, it's with the Ka template. My feeling is this is not going to be an overnight snapshot of like, okay, now you're a brand new being, off you go. The way this has to change is because there's a lot of catch up cellularly and with the body as a whole, the organism is just slowly starting to wake up.
So the changes, although they're very big jumps, the shifts in energetics are having to move and settle sometimes to allow the being to stabilize and catch up and integrate the changes that have happened. But perhaps it's a good idea to give your audience a bit of a discussion about the difference between the state of energetics and how energies behave in where we've been sitting in sort of more 3D strokes sort of slightly 4D experience moving into a far more quantum and expansive living field experience. So essentially under high compression energy can form these things that we call particles and atoms and molecules and so forth.
And so when physics talks about those, it talks about them in a fairly sort of consistent, almost you might say rigid way of looking at them because of the high compression they behave in such a sort of a limited way.
And so the patterns of behavior are fairly predictable in a way. Now about halfway through the last century the ideas of quantum mechanics came along, which is all of a sudden. Suddenly we're seeing that what we thought were deterministic elements and pieces of matter are behaving in ways we don't understand.

And that really is the fundamentals of quantum. But what physics really does is it tries to look at that which is quantum through a series of lenses which is highly structural and linear. And so it tries to interpret the non-linearity or the sort of odd behavior of the quantum domain through the eyes of how can we understand this using our very mechanistic and structural language of mathematics as it is.
And so what I see is that the aspects of the quantum domain are so almost out of view because of the fact that consciously as beings we have been so endeared to think structurally and almost mechanistically. And so the reality that we create and focus on behaves that way because it mimics us and mirrors us. And in that way the way I see astrology is that it's a very wonderful mechanism to try to read back the outer goings on to give a reflection to see what's going on inside.
And the beautiful news is I feel that what's going to happen is that there is going to be a quantum leap in the understanding of those readings, those astrological readings. So I don't think you're going to go out to business. That's what I think is the good news that you've been waiting for is that as living beings, we're going to learn to transition from reading things in through the eyes of a certain sort of how could it is structuralized platform to one that is more quantum, but the read back is still there if you see what I mean. So in other words, the ability to read back.
So when for example, the teams and the guides give an overview of where things are going. They're reading quantum potential fields. They're not reading the structure. They can have a whole snapshot of all possibilities in one, which is within the quantum domain.
And I believe that's where perhaps if I may be so bold that your profession is evolving into. So it's going to gain this profound quantum leap in being able to read things into in a quantum potential way. So I think it's actually exciting, really exciting news because the ability to read back what's going on has been a profound gift for humanity.

Because one of the things that I feel that my teams have conveyed and I've seen this and other channelings as well from other people is that part of what happened and part of the reason for having this experience is that beings were losing the ability to stabilize their creations and one way to be able to stabilize is to have this outer experience where you firsthand experience fully what it is you're creating and decide, I don't like that feedback so much. That wasn't so nice. I need to make some adjustments.
And so there is this balance between understanding the inner and understanding the reflection of the outer, which is pretty much if I again maybe so bold, what astrology is really about. And it's underpinnings, but what's going to happen because of this transformation into the quantum side of things and the quantum side is fundamentally conceptually so different from what we're used to seeing. And this is why I believe mainstream physics struggles to understand the quantum world and all looks at it in terms of mechanical probabilities. So for example, many of your readers and I'm sure you will have heard of have something called the wave function. Now the wave function is a probability wave in a sense. It's simply an equation which describes a wave of a particle.
And you can use that to determine the probability of could be where its position is or how fast it's going. And there's this rule that says the more you know of how fast it's going, its position becomes unlimitedly blurred to you. So if you know exactly how fast it's going, you have no idea where it is and conversely this sounds a bit like a bit of a head job. And conversely if you know exactly where it is, you have no idea how fast it's going. So this is this weird interplay in the quantum world.
And so what physics tries to do is try to understand everything on this level in terms of probabilities of you know from a mechanistic point of view. But I believe what's happening is that human consciousness is evolving into the quantum domain and our language of mathematics itself is going to evolve. It's going to change from a purely structural language into a quantum mathematics which is very different.

So let me give you an example because this is getting a little bit sort of a reflection at the moment. If you imagine in a quantum field elements within that field come up, but they don't have any particular value they have a they have this whole relationship within the field and if you change one all of the others change as well. Whereas if you spread a bunch of marbles out on the table something you can move one and the others don't seem to do anything. But in the quantum field realm everything is interchangeable and interrelatable. It's all part of the same thing which comes back to oneness again.
And so when we talk about quantum probabilities and being able to determine you know aspects of what you're looking at. What it really comes down to is in the quantum realm numbers themselves have no empirical value. A four doesn't have the value of four, six doesn't have the value of six. It's fluid. It changes, morphs, does all sorts of crazy things. But then as soon as you focus on it can become a six or it can become a four.
And so that whole dynamic of that language can change and move around and that's a very different concept and so if that helps your audience to understand that when we look at the world around us it feels fairly deterministic.
If you walk into a wall, it's going to hurt. It's going to stay there. You move something over here, it moves over there, it stays.
But in the quantum realm as we become more quantum in our perception and our energy generation. Everything fundamentally changes. Aspects of teleportation all sorts of things and instant travel. You name it whole vistas are going to open up which are largely known as an impossibility in the highly dense realities we live in at the moment.
But as physical beings I know this is something which has been taking place in the past in ancient mystery schools where they were teaching people to literally teleport themselves from one point to another consciously and you can do that very easily once you establish yourself in that that quantum consciousness.
And so that really is to give a flavor to where we're moving into and I've done a lot of unpacking there so I'm sure you have plenty of questions if you want to pick that to pieces.

PAM: It's so interesting though because and I'm quoting you here. You said and you're not someone given to hyperbole at all, that humanity is now going to skyrocket, this is opening us up. Yes, we're fabulous. So to come back to the question, I've always thought of planets not only as spinning rocks out there, but as probability waves of consciousness each with their own note or frequency or resonance.

Yes, they are very much the hermetic principle of As above, So below.

When I'm looking at a birth chart I'm not only looking at the map of the heavens at someone's birth I'm looking at their inner psyche at the same moment. It's the same. It's inner and outer. So is it true to say that the planets are probability waves of consciousness? How will that change in future and will astrology become more inner than it has to date, the interpreter of people?

DAVEY: That's a very great question you let's unpack that so the way that I see it and I perceive things is that all things including the planets right down to the very fundamental atoms themselves are energetic reflections of our perceiving state as perceivers and so literally everything is a direct reflection as us as the perceiver and so as we change our state so do they. Because they are going to change their reflection of us and so when I say everything starts with us, yes absolutely created.

Yes, you see it's a magnificent large scale organism and when you when you think about it in terms of this like a group of aspens trees, everybody thought for a while the aspens were separate, but they're all connected with a common root system they all adjust and are in connection with one another.

And so matter is no different, planets are no different as well and there their behavior as the way they are reflects the state that we are in as generators of energy and perceivers of energy. It's one to one and this is also what's going to change because in physics itself there are a lot of so called constants that were around that physicists didn't think were changeable.

And all of it even when I was doing my undergraduate degree back when. Because if we go back in the 90s there was talk of certain constants they were measuring was suddenly starting to change. Decay rates of particles and things and then I did I had no idea about this. I was completely in that game. I was like, oh cool, that's something new they're discovered.

But looking back now what I see is that these were the beginning stages of how energy behavior which is labeled as physics which is just the study of how. Energy behaves was beginning to change very slightly, a little bit by little bit, and what we're moving into is a whole new paradigm of existence of how we perceive. What we perceive is adjusting to us and you're very correct in saying. That large scale complexes of matter themselves are vibrational energetic forms that compressed energy forms with vibrational patterns to them and as you grow and grow those into large organisms or planets or galaxies solar systems whatever they all have these beautiful patterns inside them.
And as we adjust, what we actually find is that we're what we're actually perceiving changes the way it sees to us it's behavior starts to change it becomes more quantum it becomes more fluid or interactive. You can start to sense the oneness with that object that you are now looking at rather than thinking oh that's a nice object over there doesn't feel any relation to me whatsoever. It's just going about its business, but as you move up into those higher domains you know that's going to be a very important object.
So you suddenly start to perceive the fundamental root system or the oneness that connects us all and how when we make changes to ourselves what we perceive also alters as well and it comes back to what I was saying about the quantum field dynamic, that within a quantum field things don't necessarily have a fixed value. They alter with each other, but the more in compression you go they appear to start behaving more like solidified structural objects.
As you change your perception the quantum field starts coming back more into play and you're able to perceive that and then suddenly, for example, in those old tales about masters being able to hold out their hand and manifest material in the front of their hands well as an energy creator once you reach that level and you're able to adjust yourself to such a level that you can change your reality like that.

That's a very easy thing to do for them. That's not a difficult thing it seems difficult for us.
Because you're like what's happening in this like nothing's working and it really is just because we need to return to that state within ourselves that pure high self beingness where that natural state of quantum fluidity is organic.
It's innate. It's already there. So it's nothing that we struggle and strive towards, but because we've come from such a paradigm of densification the body has to go through the step by step transition process to adjust because it's a big paradigm shift and like I said.
I think for somebody in your field is a very exciting future because I believe that what the teams have said is that you're going to be able to read and interpret things in a quantum level which is going to be a real step forward from what's happening and has been happening in the past.
It's a very wonderful and beautiful thing so you know and the understanding that comes with that is this greatest scope of not just what happens within our solar system the galaxy, but not just all of the universe itself, but interconnected to universes as well.
And that's another reason and I'm my teams have just pinged me on that as to why you know all eyes are focused on the Earth right now is because what's happening here.
This this massive profound transformation from being where we were to being you know fully connected present higher self within a human body, but the human body that has this quantum capability is that it's going to affect through that sort of quantum lattice if you like or that quantum interconnectivity with everything and so everything changes. When I talked about, things within a quantum level, that if some field is adjusting when other when other things adjust well it's very much the same.
So if you see that on a large scale that the entire organism of Source and all the individual aspects which are us. The teams, everyone else, we're all interconnected in that way and we make this massive jump that they get. They feel the ripple effects on the up jump as well. It's just such a beautiful interconnected root system that we're all part of.

PAM: Yes, it's absolutely beautiful. So, as I've intuited, our reality is going to become much more fluid, much more mobile. Yes, Very interesting, David, that we're discovering more planets further out in our solar system. There's a planet that was I just heard about yesterday. It doesn't even have a name yet and it has an orbit of 25,000 years, which is the longest orbit that we're aware of. So that seems to correlate with our expanding consciousness. As our consciousness expands, we can see further out in the cosmos. Again, it's just a mirror, it's a mirror reflection, isn't it?
So just to say that as you're describing it, and again, this is so Buddhist, isn't it? That ultimately, this demonstrates how powerful we are.
DAVEY: Oh, yes.
PAM: Everything has always and is ultimately coming from within us. Everything.
DAVEY: Exactly. And this is the way to see it, that another way of looking at it is one of the analogies. I'm not sure if it was coming from me or my team's, that if you imagine, as a Source being in this infinite Source field, with infinite possibility, you're unlimited.
The word limited doesn't even exist, because you can morph and change into anything that you want to do. Now, imagine what at some stage, as a being, you decide what? Let's have a game where we can create limitations on ourselves, so we can master those limitations, have a game where we feel like we're limited and we have to evolve through that.
And so this kind of, in a way, this sort of energetic virtual reality headset came over us, where we have this game of interaction, where this game completely models itself on the energy that we give out. This is just an analogy just to make it a little bit easier to see. And so the great thing about this game is that when you master your inner energetics, you can create the most beautiful, amazing things within this paradigm.
The downside is, if you fall into victimhood and believe you are now the victim of what you are perceiving and seeing outside you, a feedback loop starts occurring, where you create more victimhood upon that and then you see what you've just created and you become even more of a victim to that and it's a devolving spiral. And that kind of, in a nutshell, is what has happened to humanity. And this is what we're moving out of, to say, hey, humanity, you realize, you are doing all of this, you are victim to nothing and you never have anything.

PAM: I have this a lot in my videos, actually. So it's great to hear it from your point of view as well because it's the truth from you. So it's great to hear that because I bang on about this endlessly and in my videos. It’s so good to hear and again, I'm quoting you that we have got so much further ahead in achieving these things than the galactics ever thought possible in this lifetime.

DAVEY: Yes. And it was partly due to the fact that we had become so enamored in this, almost the words they're saying, I can hear now, it's a self-defeating spiral of victimhood. So that we become so deep in the, ‘Oh my god, everything's out to get me.’ And like everything's and I know it's very difficult. I'm sure there's many listeners that will understand exactly what that feels like because so many humans are going through that. Everyone to a certain degree is going through that.

And this unfolding is really showing this that when you see something outside of you that you don't like that appears to be having a go at you or appears to be doing things that you're not happy with.

Question one, what are you generating to create that reality to be there as it is? You're not a victim. Go inside and what mostly it is to do with is some past life when we didn't have enough knowledge to understand this, we made big misinterpretations and misunderstandings because that's all we had at the time.

When we're being chased by Romans or God knows what else I mean, you're not stopping to think, oh, hold on a sec, lads. Just let me get this straight. I need to look at my energy first. Don't attack. It's like it wasn't so accessible. It was a very different way of being. And so a lot of events like that took place, which further enamored this feedback loop of self suppression and self-victimization. And it's all layered and layered and layered in different aspects of our unconscious sub-conscious and conscious as well. And so this is what's unfolding. And so when these big waves of purgings come out, that's literally the junk that is coming off you because these are filters that we have put in place. So another way, let me describe it this way because they're just impulsed me with something.

They're saying, ‘Imagine this, as a creator, you have this unlimited well of energy that can pour through you. If you place filters over that, which code the energy and warp and distort it into creating victimhood or things going wrong, those kind of things, it's those lenses we put in place that we hold in place. They're saying that distorts our reality to make us feel like, ‘Oh my god, the sky is falling in.’
And they're saying, that is literally in a nutshell, what humanity is undoing. We're removing the filters that we've put in place. They can be beliefs. They can be energetic, contractual obligations, a whole bunch of things. But mostly it's the emotional charge that got attached to that when we had it that gives it such a feeling of, ‘Oh my god everything's really falling to pieces.’
And that is, they're saying the most difficult aspect for humanity because we have such powerful emotional generation abilities that the emotions can seem so overwhelming, so strong that even though nothing is actually going wrong, it actually really feels like it's going terribly wrong. And that's where things can. You've got to try to catch yourself and realize, okay, take a breath. Okay, slow down. All right, okay, breathe through this.
This has come up to be released. I'm just going to clear this and let it go and move beyond this so that I remove that layer of filtration, which distorts my creator energy and lenses it. It's like a projection screen in a cinema. You get pure light going through that beam through the projector, but you can project the most horrible filters that look awful that distort that light. It's just an image and that's where the word holographic comes, holo meaning light and graphic meaning a structural image, so a light image.
And this is what we're doing and they're saying this is part of the game or the exercise we're going through. We're learning to understand that we are literally creating everything that we see.

And when you learn to get the feedback that we were talking about before and interpret the feedback, understand where that filter has come from, what that filter is and that you can clear that at the moment that you wish to, that is a massive paradigm change. And when we clear those filters, because this is the other aspect, we've had so many filters that have just compressed and compressed and compressed so that what we project as a creator is this highly densified outer existence where matter behaves in XYZ where everything outside of us from planetary bodies to everything behaves in certain patterns.

And when we change that, everything the filters come off and we will see those things in a very different light because the filters which are filtering and making us see them and perceive them in a certain way and they're no longer there, we can see them in a more true nature of what they are. We can see their behavior in a true nature of what they are.

And so gradually that virtual reality headset is dissolving away where we start to see truth, the reflective truth within us and not the distortions of those lenses that we've put in place that we really we need to let go of and be clear off. So yes, I hope that makes it a little bit easier.

PAM: Fabulous and I very often say to people that one of the most powerful things you can do is just drop into stillness. Come back to your operating system, your central core and recognize that you are generating everything. So being in peace, being still, dropping into the breath, really powerful, simple, stuff.

DAVEY: Yes. And also, just quickly there if you don't mind, I'd like to add something onto that is that's absolutely correct. And I totally agree with that because one of the aspects that stillness gives you is it settles your perception ability down where its clarity can become so much more.

And that's an important point for moving forward with personal development and healing because if you're caught up in the drama of things, you lose perspective of what's really happening. You just get torn up in the whirlwind and you get knocked around all over the place.

And the stillness gives you the ability to really just let go, disengage from the drama and see the clarity of what it is that's going on. So you can have the ability there to say, okay, I see what's going on. Now that I consciously understand what's going on, I have the full ability to change it because you can't change anything while you're wrapped up inside it because you have to be able to see it as a pure perceiver.
And then when you've seen it as a pure perceiver, that is the power that gives you and the place of that power that allows you to make the changes, to finally clear it. But you can, it's like whenever you see somebody who's caught up in drama all the time and they can't seem to break out of it is that you will never be able to dissolve that tornado while you're whizzing around inside it. You're just getting carried away with the drama and the energization of the situation. You need to stop and it's funny because in the middle of a tornado and the middle of a hurricane is a still point. It's absolutely still. It's like come into the center and realize, oh my goodness, I am generating this whirlwind. What inside me is doing it. Relax and then you can let it go and then the tornado will just disappear because you're just scattering your power when you're caught up in the air. Exactly, exactly, exactly. Yes, it's again the misappropriated energies by not really realizing what it is that we're doing and coming back into stillness is absolutely key.
PAM: I totally agree with that. And I'd like to shift the focus slightly, David, because I've been listening to you talking about intention. Now we all know intention is a great thing. We're going to live much more intentionally going forwards and before every video important conversation. I always say, let's be my highest good, the highest good of all the highest good of the Earth.
But to hear what you were talking about from a physics lens, a physics point of view, on the effect of intention, on energy and what that does to layers of reality being formed, I'm quite riveting. So this came up in the webinar with Jocelyn Star Feather that I listened to, you were talking about that. Yes, yes, it did. Living intelligence layers of reality forms from intention. So should we talk a little bit about that and the power of intention in creating matter, creating manifestation events and experiences, because I think your explanation goes far deeper than we have generally thought.

DAVEY: Yes, sure. Well, thank you so much. Yes, definitely. One of the things that going through the steps of developing the innovations that I have is that my team needed me to understand things. And it took a little while. It wasn't an overnight process. And essentially that what they were saying is that whenever you use your perceptibility and energy generation as intent, and intent is almost like a focus to see something or a focus to create something.
When we again talk about holography or holographic light image, what we're using our intent to do, it's a mechanism of lensing our creator energy into what we want to see. So that really is an intent. The way I see it and what actually seems to happen on a fundamental level is that energy starts to form into coded packets of intent codes in a way.
And I have a feeling that form is going to change as we make these quantum jumps. But essentially one of the ways to experience this is, for example, let's say you go to somebody's house where many people have lived there, perhaps a lot of traumatic stuff, arguments or whatever. And a lot of that intent or that lensed creativity from those situations has just gone out. And it's in the material of the building structure and people who are sensitive who are listening will know exactly what this is. You can go into the house, you can lay your hand on the rail, you can almost feel like you can sense a repeating cycle of something that happened. You can't necessarily know exactly all the details, but you really get a sense that something is left there.
And so everything that we do as creator beings, for example, when we create technologies for the purpose of gaining money from people or suppression or it kind of goes on in the world those kind of things, those create intent codes that are degenerative and literally drain and deplete you because it's an intent of taking not an intent of enriching or giving. It's a very different thing.
And so somebody might pretend to give somebody I don't know a present, but they might let's say for example underneath they really have a lot of disdain or something for that person. Those energy codes come with that that gift say it's like, well, thank you. And I'm sure many people have a perception of that. And so those are just sort of like some very sort of good examples of it, but essentially the intent codes are our intent imprint on anything that we do.

And it does change like, for example, with water. Water is very morphic to intent codes because even the slightest intent with water and it absolutely takes them and changes its state because of the intent codes coming into it.
And this is a massive, massive subject and it really comes back to what we were talking about before about our ability to lens and take our pure creator energy and lens it in through our intent and deciding what it is we want to see. Do we want to see good things? Do we want to see harmonic things? Or do we want to see parasitic or taking or other things like that?
And that is the free choice we have as creators. And that's part of the free will experience I believe we're experiencing, that you have free range in the spectrum to create the very best or the very degenerative. It's up to you and you can work your way through that, decide what you want to do.
And then by doing so, hopefully you refine yourself and you know what? That stuff's done. We're done with that. We want to move purely back into our original state as pure harmonic creators. And this is the other aspect because when you create from the heart center, it is not a polarity generator.
It is purely within the unity consciousness of our true selves. So you can only ever create harmonic intention codes from the heart center, whereas creating from a more personality based or the mind. Because the mind as it stands right now is a polarity generator. It generates both poles. So when you make an intent through the mind, you will see one aspect of the image, but you'll also see the polar opposite somewhere around the world that's popping up as well.
And so this is why it's so fundamentally important for people to come back into the heart centers because you do not create polarity from the heart center. It is not possible. It creates unity, it creates coherence, harmony, and all intent codes and everything you lens is purely what is the most joyful for you and everybody else as well. And that's the beautiful intelligence of the heart and how it operates. So yes, I hope that gives a bit of clarity

PAM: I don't know if this is an unfair question, David, but how far do you think we can go in this current lifetime? People are live now. How far, because we're going in so many as well. I witness it in those livestream meditations. Do you have any sense of how far we can go within the next 10, 20 minutes?

DAVEY: I can feel the team smiling. They're doing this. They're saying it is up to you, humanity. Literally, if I read you right, my team is that there's something, I probably mentioned before on a previous show with you and that was that the Pleiadians once said you can ascend right now if you want to. All you have to do is fully let go. That's all you have to do.

And that, I believe, is the premise of what we're unfolding because we have layers upon layers of grip, grip, grip, grip on so many different things, along so many different lines and we don't even know. They're saying it in a very kind way. They're saying you humans have such an immense grip on yourselves and your stuff that if you could just let it go. Suddenly, this creator energy would just supernova forward. And this is the difficulty, you see, because Source energy respects and absolutely honors our free will.

And in that perspective, we are using our free will, even if we don't realize we're doing it. In so many ways, we have no idea we're doing it, having that massive grip inside ourselves and it's like when a problem comes up, it's, ‘Oh, where did that come from? I had no idea that was going on,’ and it's because it's a layer in the unconscious and in the unconscious, we have no conscious view of it.

It's just something somewhere and when it comes up and it's like, ‘Oh, my god, where did that come from?’ Well it came from something that you were not consciously aware of, so you didn't even realize it was there and this is the layers upon layers.

So essentially, the unconscious, in my view, is everything we didn't want to own, everything we were frightened to own, everything that was too traumatic to own is stuffed down in this big bag, we call the unconscious.

And that is what is dissolving and unraveling. So to become fully conscious, we have to bring up those elements within the unconscious and make the unconscious open up into full consciousness so that we can become whole within ourselves again.
So in a way, the way I see it is, the unconscious is like a giant, fragmented aspect of ourselves of everything we wanted to stuff away and didn't want to look at.
And to have compassion, this is very difficult stuff. So I would certainly call on everybody out there to have a lot of compassion and kindness within you because you've been through many very deep and difficult things for many lifetimes.
So it's very understandable that this would happen. So nobody has done anything wrong. You've done the best that you could. We all have under the circumstances. And what the teams are saying is that literally is the thing that is holding us up.
They're saying, do take it easily. They're saying the metaphor that you can ascend right now is true, but in order to do that, everything would have to come away in one go. That would be the letting go.
And they're saying, if you can do that bravo, but they're saying, that is quite a feat to be able to do that. But to come back to what you were saying, the amount that we have been able to work through, the amount we've been able to clear is far in excess of where they thought that we were going to be able to be.
And that has entailed opening up a windows and doors, which weren't even a thing where you were back when this was first beginning. But we have made such exponential progress with this, such massive power moves, if you like, in self-development, that they're saying that the opportunity for about 90% of this planet to make the ascension window in this lifetime, in the next 10 years, is very high, very, very high.
So, but they're saying it does rely, you see, that the key thing it relies on is your commitment to keep allowing. And that's a big word, to be able to allow the stuff to come up, don't fight it. Don't try to intellectually pick it apart, just allow it to come out and come forward.

They show me an analogy again. Can you imagine a muddy cup of water full of mud, okay? And they you start pouring crystal clear water in and the mud starts oozing out and you're like, ‘Oh my god, where is that coming from? And in a sense, they're saying that's kind of what's happening. If you could just see it as mud that is oozing away and just allow that process.
And if you feel really down on it, just allow yourself to just neutrally be in that space and it will pass super, super quickly. And they're saying the thing that causes this sort thing is a retardation, what they mean is the slowing down of the progression of that moving out is our reaction to it is that we suddenly grab it back without realizing it because it scares the living daylights out of us sometimes.
And they're saying this is why, as well, the connection with the higher self is very important because of the need to go back into center. Just like you were saying, go back into stillness, connect with the higher self and feel that truth again. This is the real truth of what's coming out. It is just the mud clearing, that's all it is. It's just mud, it's just mud, it's just mud and it has to leave. It must leave because those filters have to come off so that you can create as a pure harmonic coherent creator again rather than distorting it into all sorts of weird images of things that appear to be attacking you, which is actually really yourself doing it to yourself. So yes, definitely.
PAM: Yes, wonderful. David, so this is absolutely a one way process. We're not going back to the old one and recognizing what powerful bridge builders we currently are. Would this be a good moment to bring in your team to give us some message, some advice or insight in terms of how we can really make better progression apart from the allowing and apart from the recognizing that we create our own reality through this victimhood or any other insights they'd like to share with us at this super, super important time of transition that can help us on our journey.
DAVEY: Yes, so my teams, my high self, would you like to say anything on this? They go, yes, so okay, I'm going to start: Greetings to you all. We are the Arcturians. It is our great pleasure and joy to introduce this information to you this day as this one has asked for.

And so the message we wish to share is one of immense joy and possibility. You see, as this one has mentioned, as he calls it, the possibilities of the human supercomputer, we will elaborate. You see, your body is designed to be in immaculate, receiver and transceiver and worker of energies we will say. And so far, because of the human condition, even though you have extensions multidimensionally, your bodies have been at a state which has meant your ability to work with energies has been exceptionally limited, even for those of you who are sensitive.

We will give you an example. In the days to come, should you be willing to take this transformation, you will be able to perceive information from one side of this galaxy to another effortlessly. You will be aware of as this one calls it, the living organism that is this planet, this solar system, this galaxy and beyond.

Do you see how exciting this is? Dear brothers and sisters, you have within you a combination of master elements of DNA, from races such like us that when fixed together and operating and opened, shall we say to such a degree, the energy synergy, the energy flow, the energy sensitivity, and the energy perception of that immaculate energy system is profound. We are truly excited to see where you humanity will take this.

And we will say looking at the quantum potentials, that your destiny is one of truth, shall we say, like a supernova of evolution. The spark of change began long ago. The journeys you have been through have been very difficult. We understand this. But as this one has said, you are undoing and letting go of old layers that do not serve you. They are simply layers of self-created limitation. In response to outer happenings, misunderstandings, and an array of other facets of human existence. This is okay. This was expected in this game. And each of you fully understood before you're incarnate cycle all of the possibilities of what would happen, what you would gain, what you would go through, and what you would come out with on the other side and take with you into your next incarnation cycle. We cannot overemphasize as we have done to this one the importance of the cherished sacred heart existence.

We as our Arcturians have developed many what are called technologies, but these are living organic technologies that are biased for life, that serve life, and are used throughout this galaxy in and are many collaborations with other races and beings from other galaxies. Do you see the joy and interconnectivity?
This is something that is made possible by living within the heart center, and as we said to this one many years ago, the difference in living in a head-centered way, we shall say, to living in a heart-centered way is so profound we cannot adequately express this in the words that you use. Heart-centered existence is your future should you wish it, dear brothers and sisters. The leaps and bounds that you will make are so enormous it very much has the eyes from within this galaxy and beyond waiting to see what you will do.
And we will come back to the aspect of your perception. And what you will be capable and what you are capable of perceiving, once your physical body, once you as a being integrate and connect with your high-dimensional aspects and your cellular structure evolves to meet that energetic. Imagine for a moment that as a being in a human vessel we will say an evolved human vessel into what you are becoming. You will be able to perceive and have perception of the entire galaxy and beyond that is the significance of your sensitivity and perception that you are going to gain should you choose to gain it.
Imagine having the ability to create energetics with a level of sensitivity that spans such an enormous living organism. Because with that sensitivity comes the understanding and the awareness that you are the galaxy, that you are the universe. You will have such a profound jump in your sense of self that we dare say you cannot even begin to imagine what it will be like. But in saying these things we hope to excite you. We hope to give you a small impression of what is yet to come.
And in the days coming as large energies become cleared remember to keep peaceful, keep centered. Do not get caught up in the whirlwind of change. For change there must be. It is change that you have asked for. And for this change to come about the old must leave. This simply must be so dear brothers and sisters. And we as your Arcturian family as well as many races many of which you do not know the names of are all here to assist you.

We watch and observe with sheer excitement to see the beautiful steps, the brave steps, the massive consequential steps that you take in every day of your lives and we support you. That is our message for now. We love you, we are with you. We are your brothers and sisters. Go in peace.
PAM: That was beautiful, Really powerful.
DAVEY: Yes, that was a little bit overwhelming for me at times as well. I could feel how much energy was coming through.
PAM: It was really beautiful. It must have been. We're just so incredibly grateful for all that you shared with us. You really have given us so much rich information, so much loving information and so much incredibly positive and exciting information to inspire us to really just keep focusing on what we want to create that is loving.
DAVEY: Yes, exactly. That really is the simplicity of it. I mean from what the Arcturians were sharing there all that they said. And I remember the times when they told me the things that they said and it's so very true and the times that I've been very head case, kind of doing the crazy things I used to do and you know making the change to being more heart-centered.
The changes in peace and simplicity and beauty that come about when you move towards that state of heart-centeredness, the grace that comes within you, all the things that we see, they just come forward naturally. There is nothing to attain. We're just letting open the door.
And like you said before, like we're not going back where we're going, as we move into these new doors, the door shuts behind us and the old stays. We leave that paradigm. So that's essentially what we're doing. And I really felt when they were saying, I've never perceived that before when they said, you'll be able to perceive the entire galaxy. I really got this sudden impression. I started to go, whoa, okay, because I really felt what they were saying is that at any time you choose to focus anywhere within the galaxy, you can have perception of any aspect of it because it's like your interconnectivity, you suddenly become aware that as a living being, you are the galaxy, like an extended body of yourself.

And they're saying that's exactly what we mean. That is where you go and the greater and greater you go back, you're effectively moving back to the one Source field to become aware of yourself as the creator again. And so I just had a bit of an interesting thought there. I think they dropped that in there. Do you see how on a subatomic, an atomic, a material, a planetary solar system, galactic, universal level, it's all mirrored. It just goes up and up and up and up. But also as you go down, it goes inward as well. So it's all Source energy in that way.
And so yes, it really felt quite incredible. I just thought I'd share that with you.
PAM: It's beautiful. It’s incredibly inspiring to think we are alive at this time and we are interacting with this sort of energy and the possibilities for us, as you've said, David are absolutely infinite now. We've left the tram tracks. We have indeed. Yes.
DAVEY: And again, the, sorry, you're probably a little bit short on time, but yes, definitely I would say that one of the key factors in moving forward that I recommend to everybody is always look at anything that happens in your life that you don't like as a literally like you would in astrology to see the pitfalls, the good things, the potentials. Look at that and say, okay, how am I generating that? What is it within me that that is showing me, hey, did you know you have this? You really should look at this because if you don't, this is going to keep happening.
And once you release the energy, you no longer broadcast that and you will not have a reflection like that again. And so people who've been going through, and I'm sure there's many people as I have in the audience in my years of doing this is that when things keep cyclically happening, you haven't quite finished clearing those filters and those aspects of you that are generating that particular thing. So just keep going, have compassion with yourself and understanding that you are an immense being that is learning to remember their immensity and who they are and you are making excellent progress.

PAM: So just remember that definitely. Yes, beautiful. Your frequency defines everything. Doesn't it?
DAVEY: Your state of being defines everything. It does. It does. It does. And also to remember a little bit beyond that as well, that the Source Intelligence exists beyond frequency because if you think about it, frequency is the oscillation of something, but what is it that is oscillating, if you imagine.
And so in a way of speaking we are actually indeed beyond frequency, we create frequencies to have these patent experiences and so forth, but in truth we have this beyondness of even that, which is almost like a very delicious, beautiful thing to consider because we have the ability to create any frequency you want because we are that which is vibrating, not the vibration itself in a way if you make this.
That sounds a little bit hickety-pickety, but it's that we are not defined by frequencies so much as that we create frequencies to experience aspects of ourselves with, to have different holographic images or different interactions, but we have the ability to change those frequencies as we wish to, which is another aspect of unlimitedness. But isn't a way being confined to just frequency isn't itself even though it's a massive, myriad of possibilities itself at a slight limitation, but when you go beyond that you are truly unlimited and you can do anything that you would love to, I just thought that I shared that with you.
PAM: Well, this has been so beautiful, David. I'm so grateful that I came across you. I'm so grateful for our friendship, for our people. And just all that you've shared today, it's been massively inspiring with all that's happening in the 3D world. You've given us something that offers us a very different vision and a very different paradigm and with the stepping stones to get there.
So I highly recommend people check out David's free Patreon site. There's such a wealth of material there as well. So I'll put those links below and just thank you again so much David. You're very welcome. I'm fully shared and yes, I may go down and sort of just line a dark room. I hope everybody else has loved it as much as I have and I hope David has as well.

DAVEY: Yes, I have and lots of love to you, Pam. I'm so glad that we are good friends now and I'd look forward to all the future adventures, whatever they may be. And I can't wait to meet you if we make it back to the UK this year, which I really hope that we do. And lots of love to all of your viewers as well and I wish you the very greatest in your adventures and unfoldings and just know that you are Source love and that whatever you're going through it will pass, don't worry. Lots of love everybody.
PAM: So much again, David. Bye-bye.
